- Handling FD&D cases on behalf of the Defense Clubs (including charter party dispute with Iranian charterers)

Subsequent to provision of security to the concerned claimant, the claim is normally brought against the shipowner/P&I Clubs through Maroos. This aspect of the cases is handled by our Claims Dept., whose activities are as follows:

- Receiving the claims documents from the concerned claimant and examining the same properly.
- Defending the Principals' interest in accordance with local law and regulation.
- Providing the P&I Clubs with the claims documents and providing them the best advice on how to proceed to defend the claim in a proper manner.
- Negotiating with the claimant to resolve the case on best possible terms before the court.
- Seeking the legal opinion of the local lawyers if necessary.
- Appointing lawyers on behalf of the Principals as and when necessary to attend the court and defend their interests.
- Close liaison with the appointed lawyers and assisting them to deal with the claims in the most proper manner.
- Reporting the developments of the cases to the Principals at all stages.
